BOOKS

The profitable advertising of books is one of the hardest problems a storekeeper has to face,

It is for this reason that the booksellers are so eager for publishers to advertise their new books in the newspapers of willing to co-operate by ade-quate displays and every other legitimate means.

If the publishers realized what business possibilities were being left undeveloped their entire ad-vertising plans would be mater-ially changed.

Publishers interested in increasing their list of "best sellers" are invited to address the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers Association, World Building, New York.

ARGUMENTS NEXT IN SLANDER CASE

Evidence All In-Both Sides Rest In Craney vs Donovan -Witnesses In Rebuttal Contradict Many Points In Defendant's Testimony-Arguments Will be Made Next

The $20,000 scandal suit of John F. Crancy against John Donovan awaits the beginning of the arguments in the superior court here next week Tuesday. At $.14 o'clock Thursday afternoon the attorneys for both plaintiff and defendant declared that they both rested and Judge Milton A. Shumway adjourned court, excusing the jury till Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock when the first of the arguments for the plaintiff will be made.

In Rebuttal

Savings society. In Rebuttal.

D. Jewett Rathbone was called in rebuttal and he said he knows Mr. Craney by sight and knows John Donovan personally, but he does not know Mrs. Church and she never beckoned to him. Mr. Rathbone said he never speke to the woman.

John F. Craney, the plaintiff, was recalled and said he had heard all of John Donovan's testimony. He said he had never followed or mocked Mr. Donovan on the street and did not talk with Mr. Donovan in front of Boynton's restaurant.

He was positive that Mrs. Church was not in his office on July 3, 1912, and he denied the story of Mr. Donovan about the meeting in the Elks home. He denied other things that Mr. Donovan said about the case and To Jury Probably Wednesday. It is expected that the arguments and the charge to the jury will take at least all day Tuesday so that it will probably be Wednesday before the jury has much of a chance to consider the evidence in the privacy of the jury.

After the judge had left the bench for the noon recess and the jury had also gone, Attorney Douglass and Mr. Donovan had a short but heated exchange of words of a personal nature and the lawyer said he would like to meet the defendant out in the hallway

Probed About Letters and Happenings In his cross examination, Attorney In his cross examination, Attorney Douglass went into many matters in detail getting Mr. Donovan to retell much of what he had previously testified to an dto explain his particular reasons for writing various letters which were among the exhibits and were read. The letters which were asked about included some to members of the Craney family, to John Charon in Woonsocket, and to Mrs. Chuch and the postal card which he wrote to Mr. Craney which brought Chuch and the postal card which he wrote to Mr. Craney which brought upn him prosecution by the U. Madden, Craney and Donovan in the Elks' home in October, 1812. The wit-ness said Mr. Madden asked if the affair in the Craney office was true and Mr. Denovan told Mr. Madden the whole story and about the many an-onymous letters and cards received by Mr. Donovan. The witness said that Mr. Craney said little except to charge Mr. Donovan with buying New York Worlds and Mr. Donovan asserted he held an anonymous card in one hand and tapper Mr. Donovan on the chest with the other hand and accused the witness of sending the card. The witness said no man could act in such a manner with him and get away with Afternoon Session.

In the afternoon session of court the attorneys for the defense were allowed to call two witnesses out of order. Dr. H. E. Higgins was one. He had an office in the Alice building, but he could not remember that on July 3, 1912, Mr. Donovan spoke to him about a woman being in the office of Mr. Craney. Dr. J. W. Callahan testified that he once stood in the doorway of the Madden store with Mr. Craney and he gave testimony that was corroborative of what Mr. Craney had said of the way Mr. Donovan had bit Mr. Craney, but which Mr. Donovan had described in a different way.

Then Judge Barnes recalled Mr. Donovan and asked him questions about what he had said about the incident in regard to Mr. Craney and meeting politicians in Hartford. Mr. Donovan said he had met Elmer E. Chadwick the latter part of last March but denied he wrote for him. Mr. Douglass asked Mr. Donovan how many times he has been at Judge Barnes' office and how much he had paid Mr. Chadwick. Both questions were ruled out by the court.

> To Improve Expression As Well As Complexion

No face is really beautiful that lacks expression. Do you realize that continual use of powders and creams lends to spoil pilancy of skin and elasticity of expression? Why not quit cosmetics, use something better, which won't clog the peres or make the skin dry pasty or olly? Ordinary mercolized wax acts quite differently from any cosmetic. It wonderfully improves any complexion, giving it life and expression. By gradually, harmlessly peeling off the thin veil of surface skin, it brings to view a pure, soft, spotless complexion, delicately beautiful and youthful. Every dreggist has this wax; it is seldom more than an ounce is needed. It is spread on nightly like cold cream and washed off mornings. In a week or two the transformation is complete.

Wrinkles do not of course enhance the expression. Neither do the pasty things many use to eradicate them. A treatment free from all objection is made by dissolving I os powdered saxolite in '4 pint witch hazel: use as a wash lotton. This soon removes even the reast charinate wrinkles. No face is really beautiful that lacks
